PRESCHOOL NEWSLETTER

Week ending 27th June 2025

Summer term

This week in Preschool we have been continuing our theme of Summer and different types of holidays.

Lots of us have created lovely artwork to add to our 'Summer' display in the classroom, using sand, glue, paint and collage materials.

We have taken a close look at some seashells and used traditional cameras in our roleplay to take some holiday snaps. The children really enjoyed our book of the week 'You Can't Take an Elephant on Holiday.'

We used the instruments to play along to the song 'I do Like to Be Beside the Seaside,' trying our best to keep to the rhythm and the beat, a skill that will help us with our phonics, listening and attention as well as musicality.

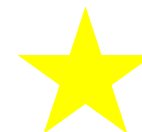

We have all been trying our best to practice our skills of independence ready for September and beyond. Please continue to aid your child's independence by encouraging these skills. For example, use of a knife and fork at mealtimes and cutting up food themselves, putting on and taking off their shoes, taking off and hanging up their coat. We appreciate your ongoing support.

Happy weekend! The Pre-School Team 😊
